It is one of those mails that has flooded mailboxes and spread worldwide.

Explanations galore have been proffered by the owners of such websites to establish their authenticity. Here is what the makers of the application say.

A name can tell a lot about the person named. Names are not randomly chosen: they all have a meaning. Doctor Love knew this so he made another great invention just for the lonely you!

More often than not, one aches to know whether a relationship with someone is worth it. Therefore Doctor Love himself designed this great machine for you. The names chosen are entered in the boxes and submitted. The result is a percentage that is a purported derivation from the names entered. This apparently is a scientific computation that reflects the likelihood of the success of a romantic relationship between the two.
